Pray...

◇ ... that nurses will be attuned to the spiritual needs of their patients and will give appropriate care.

◇ ... for Christian faculty and students to be bold in discussing spirituality in the classroom and clinical experiences.

◇ ... that God's mission will be clear to students and nurses seeking his will at Urbana 12 and other missions conferences.

Back from Uganda

Last month Conne Jarlsberg, NCF Missions Specialist, traveled to Uganda to work with a multinational team of healthcare professionals from Uganda, Michigan, New York, and the United Kingdom. The diverse team merged together into one unit to meet the "whole person" needs of patients. Read more»

Caring for Gay Persons: Stop the Hurt

"I realized I need to know more about gay issues and concerns," writes by Kathy Schoonover-Shoffner, JCN Editor, in the recent issue of the Journal of Christian Nursing. "I regularly encounter gay patients in my work as a staff nurse and I don't like the uncomfortable feeling on the unit from other patients, staff, and myself toward them." Read more»

From Missionary to Nursing Student

Erin Hildebrand was a missionary for ten years – before she enrolled in nursing school. As an "older" student, Erin reflects the growing diversity of nursing students today. Read more»

"Why Do You Want to Attend Urbana?"

A nursing student who applied for an NCF scholarship to attend Urbana 12 wrote why she wants to attend the student missions conference: "God has put a passion for nursing in my heart for a reason: He wants me to spread his love and his Word to the world, while practicing what I love." Read more»

NCF: Not just another group at FSU

When nursing student Bethany Gill was asked to talk about NCF at her school's fall orientation, she made the most of the opportunity to describe a mission opportunity, not just another group option for new students. Read more»
